CONGRESS ENDS SESSION. JOINS POLITICAL WAR

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(UP)—Congress quite Washington today for the political war—a four-month campaign in which major controversies of the 74th congress are expected to be principal issues.

Republicans said they would have their attack on the New Deal upon many of the major acts passed during the second congress of President Roosevelt's administration. Democrats indicated willingness to accept the challenge.

Relief policies, the new system of taxing corporations and much of the New Deal "reform" program appeared certain to be attacked by Republicans between now and November in a vigorous campaign.

WORK LISTS ARE OPEN TO ALL JOBLESS

Congress Orders Shift to Meet Criticism of New Deal Program

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(UP)—The New Deal ruled today that needy unemployed no longer need take a "pauper's oath" before qualifying for government work-relief jobs.

The administration, changing the whole complexion of the new $3,448,000,000 program, opened work lists throughout the country to all jobless—regardless of whether they ever received federal doles.

The shift was prescribed by congress to meet mounting anti-administration criticism—opposition that claimed needy should not be subjected to declaring they had no resources whatsoever.

KEYNOTER

Sen. Alben W. Barkley (Dem., Ky.), keynoter for the Democratic national convention, busy preparing his address. The keynoter who was given the same honor at the 1932 national convention, was so rushed with work during the closing hours of Congress that he was forced to work overtime in his Washington home preparing the address.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—(UP)—Al Smith's bolt and a brewing platform fight to outdo the Republican monopoly plank whirled the Democratic national convention today toward the formal sessions which began tomorrow.

At least one New York state delegate urged Smith to come to the convention but all indications were that he would rest his case with the telegram dispatched to delegates by Smith, former Gov. Joseph Ely, former Sen. James Reed, Bainbridge Colby and Daniel Cohan.

L. A. POLITICAL BOSS NAMED IN LIQUOR PROBE

ORANGE PRICES SET NEW HIGH MARK FOR MAY

by the marketing agreement officials as some 26 per cent lighter than the record crop of a year ago, and it is expected that the crop can be moved well within its normal marketing period at a weekly rate, while furnishing a full supply, should not be excessive at any time.

Some Complaints
First shipments of this variety were well received by the trade, although there were some complaints because of the appearance, due to considerable scarring fruit. Consumer response, however, was immediate and enthusiastic; juice content and sweetness proved entirely acceptable.

The Valencia movement was stepped up to a very heavy volume the last week in May and the first two weeks in June. Considerably greater than necessary to move the crop. The heavy shipments were caused by growing pressure in some sections to move as early as possible, as it was thought that a large proportion of the fruit in such sections would not hold throughout the summer without serious deterioration in grade as well as loss of volume. This pressure is expected to subside soon and shipments can then be greatly reduced at any time to sustain a satisfactory market.

Stronger Market
The market actually strengthened, however, under the present heavy supply. Exchange total packed orange sales the first week in June were among the heaviest ever sold in a single week, exceeding those of the preceding week by more than 400 cars, an increase of nearly 50 per cent. The market, instead of declining, advanced to a box. Sales on Monday, June 8, were even heavier than the first Monday in June, and the price was 11c a box higher, and 8c a box higher than the comparable Monday a year ago.

In view of the manner in which prices are holding up under maximum sales, the outlook on Valencia for the season is very encouraging. Also, competition from competitive fruits and vegetables promises to be much below normal, and business conditions and the employment situation are improved over a year ago.

Lemons
The lemon market during the month of May was better than for the same month in practically all previous years. Some spells of fairly warm weather developed early in the month, and while ex-

HARTLEY DANEKE IS DROWNED IN SURF AT HERMOSA BEACH

The death yesterday in treacherous rip tides at Hermosa Beach of Hartley Daneke, 26, of Glendale, brought sorrow to Santa Ana relatives. Miss Pauline Parsons of the Parsons apartments, 414 1/2 West Fourth street, and her brother, Fred Parsons, 220 West Seventeenth street, prominent Santa Ana druggist.

Hartley Daneke and his wife, formerly Miss Browning Hervey, 25, of this city, were swimming in the ocean at the foot of Twenty-seventh street, Hermosa Beach when the young man was drawn under by the swirling tide. His wife battled to save him and was eventually brought to shore by life guards who also saved their swimming companion, William Fred Arndt of Glendale, but were unable to rescue Daneke. His body has not yet been recovered.

The young people were to celebrate their second wedding anniversary in July. Mrs. Daneke was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Hervey, Santa Ana residents for many years. Mrs. Hervey was a sister of Miss Parsons and Fred Parsons. Browning Hervey went through the Santa Ana schools. Her mother and a younger sister, Miss Josephine Hervey, have not yet learned the sad news of the death of Hartley Daneke. They left late in the week for Seattle where both were to spend the summer in college lectures and courses, and have not yet reached their destination.

Hartley Daneke was with the Los Angeles office of the Fuller Paint company where he had received rapid promotion.

SMITH BOLTS PARTY WITH FIVE OTHERS

this procedure was held to be that it would antagonize further action Democratic elements which already lean toward the Smith-Ely-Reed camp.

The Democratic national committee itself was made vividly aware of the revolt of anti-New Deal Democratic forces when it met to settle pre-convention details.

Silence Ominous
The roll of national committee-men was called. It met two ominous silences. There was no answer when Ely's name was read and none for that of Gov. Eugene Talmadge, Georgia Roosevelt foe.

Neither will attend the convention. Talmadge lately had been thought to be making half-way peace gestures. But today, he emphasized his continued dissent to the new deal by announcing in Georgia his agreement with the Smith-Ely-Reed demand for repudiation of Mr. Roosevelt by the convention.

Talmadge, however, made it clear that he will not "take a walk" should the foes of the New Deal meet defeat in their fight to stop Roosevelt at Philadelphia. "The fight must be kept in the party," said the Georgia governor who last February threatened to lead "2,000,000 discontented Dixie Democrats" out of the party ranks. "I am no bolter."

Chairman James A. Farley of the national committee countered Smith and his associates by charging they represented "organizations like the Liberty league." Convention leaders variously described the conservative effort to rally anti-Roosevelt sentiment as "impertinent" or "futile."

Farley Opens Show
Farley opened the show at 10 a. m. with a meeting of the national committee, while the town filled with approximately 2000 delegates and alternates and thousands of loyal Democrats, sightseers and curious. As the committee assembled, reports circulated that Farley would resign from the cabinet so soon as President Roosevelt was renominated, but continue as campaign manager and chairman of the national committee.

The two-thirds rule is almost counted out. Roosevelt-Farley pressure and enthusiastic northern and western support are expected to compel the south to relinquish the rule under which it has been able to exercise a veto power on Democratic nominations. The convention probably will vote to adopt simple majority rule.

Good news for New Dealers arrived from Wisconsin where the progressive organization of the La Follette brothers was reported to have repudiated the union third party projected by Lemke. A spokesman for Gov. Alf Landon in Topeka indicated the Republican candidate welcomed the third party into the presidential field.

Anti-New Dealers
Lemke, Dr. Francis E. Townsend, who devised the Old Age Revolving Pensions, Inc., and Dr. Gerald K. Smith, self-styled spiritual heir to Huey P. Long, were scheduled to meet today in Washington to discuss anti-New Deal strategy.

But these were of incidental interest to delegates who still talked of the probability of Al Smith bolting the party.

Smith took his walk in the forthright declaration to convention delegates. With Bainbridge Colby and Daniel F. Cohalan, of New York, James A. Reed of Missouri, and Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, the "happy warrior" of 1928 abandoned the New Deal democracy and called upon Americans to follow his lead. The five signers of the open letter offered the nub of vital platform plank, the challenge to the convention to pass Mr. Roosevelt over for "a genuine Democrat," and, inevitably knowing their advice would be scorned, said to the delegates, this:

"If you fail, then patriotic voters of all parties will look unhesitatingly to what standard they must rally in order to preserve the America of the great leaders of the past."

Al will scratch the ticket next November. Political observers judged the Smith-and-associates statement as directed at the presidential campaign proper rather than toward this convention which is firmly under New Deal control despite possibility of committee wrangles or even floor dispute over portions of the platform.

BLANK PLACES IN FRONT RANK
PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—(UP)—Blank places showed in the Democratic front rank today. They marked the physical and political casualties since the spring of 1932 when the party of Jefferson, knowing it was a thousand to one shot to return to national power, assembled in Chicago for another national convention.

Death and disension have altered the cast. The names of Smith, Reed, Murray, Ritchie and Baker were on half the signs carried by enthusiastic, parading delegates and on many tongues four years ago. They were the unsuccessful presidential contestants and today all were missing.

Alfred E. Smith sits in his New York skyscraper, co-signer of a revolutionary petition, a potential bolter from the party. Newton D. Baker no longer is a party power. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray already is a bolter, just returned to his Oklahoma farmstead from a visit to Gov. Alf M. Landon, the Republican presidential candidate. James A. Reed of Missouri signed the petition with Smith and he too has one foot out of the party. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland is dead.

Remember Huey Long
Dead, too, is Huey P. Long, but

PLAN PROPOSING RETURN OF GOVERNMENT CONTROL TO LOCAL UNITS IS APPROVED

The idea of returning governmental control to local units of government, advanced by the tax committee of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, of which R. C. Hoiles is chairman, will be supported and advanced by the Southern California Economic Council.

This fact was made known to-day by officers of the local chamber in a report to chamber directors. The report was made following a meeting held Saturday in Los Angeles, when the matter was presented to the Economic Council by Secretary Howard I. Wood of the local chamber, and Supervisor William C. Jerome.

The local chamber officials believe that the only way in which governmental costs can be reduced is by returning control of governmental functions to local units of government. At the Saturday meeting the discussion grew out of consideration of welfare problems of the state and counties.

A resolution was passed, copies of which will be sent to the governor and other state officials, urging that the welfare activities of the state be returned to the counties and that the State Relief Administration, formerly the State Emergency Relief Administration, be disbanded. Supervisor Jerome will discuss the matters with members of the state association of chamber of commerce secretaries Friday.

At the invitation of President Rees Kennedy of the chamber, Supervisor Jerome this morning discussed with the chamber board the present situation on the $13,000,000 Orange county flood control project. He said that the actual works will be in control of the army engineers, and that the program runs high with the national government.

Plans for a general membership meeting next Monday, when M. R. Emmertal of the Lido Isle company will discuss means of attracting wealthy boat owners and others to Orange county, were considered this morning. It was decided that the meeting will be held next Monday noon in the Green Cat cafe.

Secretary Wood reported that the forum meetings for merchants will be held each Thursday morning at 8:45 o'clock. Next Thursday the merchants will discuss plans for making Santa Ana business improvements.

Democrats will remember his drive for Roosevelt in Chicago and most of all the balloon room show he produced when a delegation of anti-Long Louisianians sought his conversion to the Kingfish. He staked out for himself. He packed the aisles with that hilarious performance and casual visitors preferred it to the best theaters.

Another Long represents Louisiana today. Rose McConnell Long, his widow and successor in the senate.

Dead, too, is Louis McHenry Howe, the weakened little man whose mind projected Mr. Roosevelt to the White House long before any other thought it possible. Also Thomas J. Walsh, senator from Montana, permanent chairman of the 1932 Democratic convention and, when he died, attorney-general designate.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee and a political power four years ago, is just a financier and industrialist today. In eclipse with him is J. M. Shouse, 1932 executive director of the national committee, now manspinner of the American Liberty league drive against the New Deal.

Publicist Charles Michelson, who was discovered by Raskob and House, still is at his original job of press agenting Democrats which involves attacking his departed colleagues.

Ely Is Bolter
Massachusetts' 1932 Gov. Joseph B. Ely made the best speech at Chicago when he put in nomination of Alfred E. Smith. Ely signed yesterday with his former leader and read the appeal which allots their November votes to Landon if Mr. Roosevelt is renominated here this week.

Jimmy Walker will not be here to charm the convention. The dapper man whom crowds insistently followed in Chicago no longer is mayor of New York, nor even a delegate to the convention. He only recently ceased being an informal exile from the United States and now is en route to London for a brief summer visit.

Sen. Alben Barkley of Kentucky is back at the old stand, to deliver the keynote speech this year as in 1932. Sen. Joseph T. Robinson has been promoted from the 1932 supporting cast to stardom as permanent chairman. Gov. James M. Curry of Massachusetts, who sneaked into the convention as a delegate from Puerto Rico in 1932, is leader of the Bay State brigade today. Curry was for Roosevelt four years ago and was denied a seat with his Massachusetts neighbors by a state organization hotly determined to nominate Smith.

McAdoo Is Back
Sen. William G. McAdoo is back and in good standing with the administration. But no 1936 role awaits him comparable to that of 1932 when he strode to the platform to announce release of Texas and California Garner delegates to Roosevelt, taking sweet revenge on Candidate Smith with whom he was dedicated for the nomination at the New York convention in 1924.

The real stars of 1932 and 1936 will not arrive until Saturday. President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner will be here then to be informed that they have been renominated.

Failure To Pay Taxi Fare Lands Man In Bastille
When Lester Moore, 49, of 275 North Olive, Orange, failed to pay a taxicab driver the fare due for a trip from Barstow to Orange yesterday, he made a couple of mistakes.

The taxi driver complained to Orange police. "Well, well, well," was the gist of the opening remarks of Orange police. "We have a warrant here for Mr. Moore right now. He's wanted for issuing a fictitious check." Today Moore was booked at county jail, charged with issuing a fictitious check.

LOCATE GIRL IN MURDER MYSTERY

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Constance Edwards, red-haired San Francisco girl, was located in San Diego today and agreed to return here voluntarily for questioning in connection with the slaying of Arthur E. Lattimore, taxicab driver, police reported.

The 32-year-old cab man was found shot through the head in his taxi, with the lights on and radio blaring, near the Los Angeles Junior college campus. One hundred feet away was a blood-stained man's white cap.

Detectives said they learned that a week ago the girl complained that Lattimore struck her and remarked "Help is coming from the north." They formerly had been friends but quarreled recently.

DEATH NOTICES

A WORD OF COMFORT

Even a cursory study of art reveals that it was only after the revelation of God's love in Jesus Christ has found its place in life that painters, sculptors and musicians rise into supreme greatness through their touch with eternal things.

You will observe the same phenomenon in the lives of individual men and women. In their own life there is now to be something of grandeur, power, fineness and inspiration which did not exist until your dear one's entrance into Paradise brought to your consciousness a deep sense of the everlastingness of life.

DEMOCRATS IN HOT FIGHT FOR CENTRAL BODY

While complete harmony reigns in the Republican ranks, with not a contest in sight, the Democratic party has a hot fight in prospect throughout the county, in the approaching central committee elections.

Veteran Gets Bonds After Term In Jail

When Harold Rist, 39-year-old war veteran, who allegedly hurled 12 $50 bonus bonds away in the lavatory of the Motor Transit company, Third and Spurgeon, several days ago, came to police station Saturday afternoon to get them, the police stepped forward and said he was drunk. They arrested him on a drunk charge and booked him at county jail. He may have the bonds when he sobers up, the officers said.

KELLEY IS HELD TO ANSWER ON BIGAMY COUNT

Although both of his former wives testified on his behalf, John L. Kelley, 34, Los Angeles man, was held to answer to superior court today on a charge of bigamy.

Miss Juliet Kasso, young Los Angeles girl, whom Kelley is charged with bringing here and marrying August 21, 1935, before he had received his final divorce from Mrs. Gertrude E. Kelley of San Francisco, testified that the complaint against Kelley was made by her mother and sister. She wept as Justice Kenneth Morrison held Kelley for superior court trial.

To the statement of Atty. J. F. Greene, Los Angeles, defending Kelley, that Kelley had not lived in California long and did not understand the "queer law" which requires a year of waiting after an interlocutory decree of divorce is granted before the divorce is free to wed again, Judge Morrison stated: "Supreme courts have held repeatedly that intent to violate the law is shown by the act itself, and the law which Attorney Greene says is 'queer' was adopted for the specific purpose of better controlling marriage and divorce." Judge Morrison refused to release Kelley on his own recognizance and set bail at $2500. Prosecution was conducted by Deputy District Attorney Sprague.

As Miss Kasso, whose marriage was annulled, left the courtroom, arm in arm with Kelley, she wept. Kelley was returned to jail. Information against him will be filed in superior court June 26.

SECOND MEETING HELD TODAY IN EFFORT TO HALT STRIKE

Except for continued intimidation of citrus pickers and numerous arrests of agitators, who furnished definite proof that an influx of organizers is being felt throughout the county, there was little strike activity during the week end, according to Sheriff Logan Jackson and Capt. H. C. Meehan, head of the Orange county unit of the California highway patrol.

Held at San Clemente by officers charged with wielding a razor upon the person of Sol Griego, 1322 East Third street, last night, and threatening those who sought to attend Catholic church services at 1314 East Third, Cleente Gonzalez, 29, alleged strike agitator of Morning Glory hotel, Anaheim, was arrested with city police and charged with assault with a deadly weapon. Lola Jiminez, resident of Santa Ana, north of Santa Ana, fainted when Gonzalez threatened to attack her and several others. According to the officers, Gonzalez approached Mrs. Griego who was sitting in the family car with her baby, and demanded her pocketbook. When she screamed, Griego went to her rescue and was attacked; he suffered a cut lip and a gash on the leg from the razor. Gonzalez alleged he was a striker and would "get" Griego later, officers reported. Gonzalez said he was an alien who had lived in the United States eight years.

Pickers Attacked
Reports from a crew on the William Gregg ranch, West Chapman avenue, Orange, said a Filipino picker was beaten up last night. The sheriff said he and his men and those from the highway patrol would continue the regular patrol until the agitation stopped and arrests would follow any violation of the law. He reported arrest of more than a dozen Mexicans over the week end, who were charged with being intoxicated. Numerous informal meetings were held throughout the county, but no disturbances were reported from them.

Following a meeting of U. S. Commissioner of Conciliation Edward H. Fitzgerald, Glendale, with Lucas Lucio, consular representative here, and others Saturday, which failed to accomplish anything, another meeting was scheduled for this afternoon. Packing house representatives said they would be "happy to meet with Fitzgerald" but would not attend meetings to arbitrate with those who wished to unionize.

Local Briefs
Wind velocity Saturday averaged 23 m.p.h., according to records at the Santa Ana Junior college meteorological station. Temperatures ranged from 47 at 3 a. m., to 85 at 11:30 a. m. Relative humidity was 60 per cent at 3 p. m.

Andrew K. Claude, 28, and Lela King, 24, both of Huntington Beach, have filed application for a marriage license in Riverside.

Firemen were called into action twice yesterday. At the home of Mrs. Lou Dahms, 417 West Pine, a cardboard on a hot oven, caught fire about 1:50 p. m. with no damage resulting. Last evening, a cigarette dropped upon an awning of the W. E. Otis building, 103 West Fourth street, burned a hole but otherwise caused no damage.

Police News
Eugene Gutmann, 2073 South Broadway, reported to police that thieves stole his bicycle from its parking place near Walker's State theater Saturday night.

Accused of draining a gasoline service station hose of about a gallon and a half of fuel last night, John Callahan, 24, 208 East Surf, Balaia, was arrested and charged with petty theft on a complaint signed by Frank Hart, operator of a station at 1502 South Main. Out on cash bond of $10, Callahan must face the charges in city court Wednesday at 4:30 p. m.

A Santa Ana Gardens youth who walked out of juvenile home here, yesterday morning, was captured by Brea police and returned to Santa Ana yesterday afternoon.

Huntington Beach police recovered a stolen car Saturday at the beach city. It belonged to Byrne Motor company and was stolen a month ago from the company lot, Ninth and Main, Santa Ana police learned.

Officers investigated activities of a peeping Tom in the 300-block, East Seventeenth street, last night. The peeper escaped.

James E. Reiph, 32, 523 East Chapman, Orange, was booked at county jail today, facing a complaint alleging non-support of minor children.

WASHINGTON

CURRENCY
Democratic platform secrets still hideout in "Bob" Wagner's bulging briefcase, but the master-mind of money have struck agreement on that acutely controversial question—gold. Last minute changes may force a shift, but the tip is that the metal will not be mentioned directly.

The platform will maintain that the currency has been stabilized as never before in monetary history. It will note that price levels—real measure of a dollar's value—have never been more stationary since the first two years of both industrial and farm products. It will intimate that the question of "convertibility"—with all apologies to Alf Landon—is an academic one under existing conditions. It's the former gold dollar that will be branded as "trubbery" because of its sharp fluctuations.

Politico-economists discern no danger in this stand. They don't have to dig for evidence that to farmer and city dweller alike, the gold dollar is a more reliable measure of value than the fiat money of the gold standard was. In fact, campaign speeches in preparation will summon the House of Morgan as a character-and-currency witness for the House of Roosevelt.

WARNING
Rooseveltian representatives will handle the Constitution and Supreme Court in a general and gingerly style. Conceding ultimate need for revision, the platform will headline the President's public contention that there is ample space under the constitutional tent for his one-ring, one-man show.

You will probably discover a declaration that all governmental units—city, state, national—should enjoy sufficient authority to solve their respective problems, and to arrange for disposal of those which fall into a shadowy sphere. You can be sure of a pledge to use "whatever means necessary" to permit settlement of new social, economic and industrial questions. But you may have a squint between the lines to find the "how" of it.

Despite front-page excitement over the 1936 document, in the back of their heads the framers recognize that it will be forgotten overnight. They'll have short memories if they don't. Mr. Roosevelt lost interest in his own inauguration. Alf Landon rewrote his before Cleveland newspapers had issued "extras" telling all about it. More than ever before, the candidates will be the platform and the voters. So read both advertisements with mental reservations; they were written that way.

ELDERLY
Although political youth has come to age at Philadelphia and Cleveland, two veterans have dominated the dullish proceedings in a dramatic way. One is bulky G.O.P. Boss Roraback of Connecticut; the other is the diminutive statesman from the Blue Ridge—Carter Glass.

J. Henry Jolted Old Guardsmen till their back teeth rattled when he announced that his delegation would vote for Landon on the first ballot. In past years he has passed clear and swayed voters. Recently he suffered a severe illness. Friends and foes tipped sympathetically to his bedroom door. He who had lived to fight—and browbeat—seemed not to have an enemy in the world. The demonstration mellowed the old political pirate. He regretted his record as a selfish, cynical, convention conniver. So he pinned a sunflower on his lapel, danced a jig to the tune of "Susanna" and hooked arms with the Marylanders from Kansas.

Mr. Glass snarls whenever he thinks of New Deal reforms; FDR's monetary policies rack him. No body on the Senate floor has flayed the administration more bitingly. But his Cromwellian righteousness has brought new acclaim everywhere. Universities have scrambled to honor him with degrees which he acknowledged in a hoarse voice. Old Dominion Democrats cheered him till tears dimmed his blue eyes. Like the Nutmeg patriarch, he has been touched to tenderness even toward New Dealers. He'll not join the Cope-Land-Smith-Raskob marchin' and chawin' club.

Christian Science

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., was: "The Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force."

One of the Scriptural selections presented these words of Paul to the Corinthians: "And my speech and my preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power; that your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God. . . . But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him. But God hath revealed them unto us by His Spirit: For the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God."

The Lesson-Sermon included also this passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The universe, like man, is to be interpreted by Science from its divine Principle, God, and then it can be understood; but when explained on the basis of physical sense and represented as subject to growth, maturity, and decay, the universe, like man, is, and must continue to be, an enigma."

June 20, at 9 a. m. in Laguna Beach justice court, DeBord confessed his part in the attack upon Marshall and named Vance as his accomplice, stating Vance, using a gun the two had stolen in Upland, recently, had wielded the gun against Marshall. Marshall's spine was shattered by the bullet, leaving him paralyzed from the waist down.

WRITING TO SELL

By Ethel Lockwood

WHEN YOU WORK ALONE
Many beginners find it impossible to have any coaching or instruction on short story writing, and have to depend upon their own efforts to crash the editorial offices.

Sometimes, this isn't a bad idea. For the beginner who really has talent, and is willing to work along without immediate reward, there is no better way to land an editor's check.

If he is a brand new writer, with only his desire to guide him, he should begin writing by READING. He should select two or three of the magazines to which he would like to sell, and read at least six or eight copies of each of them. After he has read the magazines, he should select a dozen or more of the stories that appealed to him most strongly, and distill each one into a hundred words or so, being sure to write down all the plot. Don't look for anything except plot the first time through them. After you are sure you have captured the plot idea, study the characters and see how the author developed them to fit the plot.

Be sure of this: most successful writers begin with an intriguing SITUATION. Most beginners begin with characters and then struggle to fit them into interesting situations. That's why so many beginners' stories are nothing but character sketches.

You should begin with a situation, something unusual that has happened or might happen. Then think up characters to fit into it. Later, when you are successful, you can sell stories that are only glorified character sketches, but that won't be the first dozen—or several dozen—that you mail out.

Along with the reading of the magazines to which you would like to contribute, you should read at least one good writer's magazine each month. Don't just look at the market tips to find another sucker upon which you can unload those first half-baked efforts, but read the articles carefully. You'll find innumerable tips on plots, characterization, suspense "planting," all the ins and outs of short-story making.

Then start writing plot ideas, bits of description, characterization, etc., using the new knowledge you have acquired.

If you're uneasy about your grammar or punctuation, go in for those things, too.

In other words, approach the work of writing and selling a short story with as much forethought and zeal as you would any other kind of job.

Stories are not just going to pop out of the air—not for most of us. If you want to get started right, adopt a definite, carefully-planned system.

Then write.

TEACHER FOR HALF CENTURY REVEALS HIS OBSERVATIONS ON EDUCATION TO REGISTER

An editorial-letter was submitted today, at The Register's request, by W. P. Read, teacher of many years' experience, who is retiring this year from active duty. He is a well-known teacher at Frances E. Willard Junior High School.

Here is what Mr. Read has to say:

"In compliance with your request, I will give you a few ideas that have resulted from more than 50 years in direct connection with our public schools as student, member of boards of education, parent, taxpayer, and teacher. This enables me to get at least a partial view of each phase of the school question.

"The student is interested primarily in enjoyment of his school work, securing grades, with a vague idea that sometime in the future he may be benefited with the knowledge obtained. The parent is interested in the schools in general but specifically in the schools as they affect his own child. Seldom will a parent condemn a school when he believes that his child is receiving wholesome benefits. If there is a complaint by others, he will usually defend the system. However he will usually condemn the school when he feels that his child is not receiving proper benefits. The taxpayer, in the main, is very generous in the support of schools. Our buildings and equipment are witnesses. But he does not always understand the need of certain expenses, nor does everyone appreciate the requirements of certain conditions.

"The Board of Education is working to secure an efficient, harmonious organization that will function smoothly and secure maximum results. Cooperation and coordination are absolutely necessary to this end. Upon the teacher falls the burden of proof in every case. He must produce results that will satisfy the child, the parent, the taxpayer, and the Board of Education. This is an exceedingly difficult task, which calls for great natural ability and highly specialized training. Few professions require more intensive training than the teaching profession.

"Subject to Controversy
"Certain laws have been passed to make our schools the very best possible. One law that is the subject of much controversy is the Teachers' Tenure. The opponents hold that the teacher should hold his position by merit alone. This contention would be more logical if our schools could be entirely freed from political influences and self-seeking individuals. In too many cases, however, the teacher may lose his position because someone else not nearly so well qualified, but with more political influence, with more pull, wants his job. Without tenure this situation very frequently obtains. Under the present California law, a teacher must serve a probation period of three years before securing a tenure. After three years successful experience, he may only be dismissed for real cause. As to the danger of the teacher diminishing the quality of his work after having secured tenure, my experience has been that it is negligible. The freedom from worry over his position, the sense of permanence, the realization that he is a part of the community and may safely invest in a home wherein he may keep his family in peace, improves rather than depreciates his work. Again I wish to state positively, that I am fully persuaded that there is something about the teaching profession that will not allow a person who does not suffer from the disabilities caused by age to do inferior work and continue teaching. He will become so dissatisfied with the feeling that he is out of harmony with his work and his fellow workmen that he will inevitably leave the profession.

Compulsory Attendance
"One of the questions of the day is the age limits of compulsory attendance. That every child should have an opportunity to attend school is not questioned. But there comes a time when it is not wise to compel a child to attend school who goes because he is forced to go and deliberately makes trouble in every way possible, with a detriment to himself, the other pupils, and the teacher. Frequently, I have had pupils state positively, 'I don't want to come to school. You make me come to school, and I will make all the trouble I possibly can.' Just what is the proper course to be pursued with such a pupil? Is it wise or fair that a teacher with a class of say 35 should be compelled to spend a large part of his time and energy to overcome the harmful effects of this unruly, troublemaking child? Is it fair to the other pupils of the school that they should be subjected to the companionship of a vicious, immoral, outlaw boy or girl? To say that there are no such children is evading the question. To say that the vicious child is the result of a vicious home is possibly stating a truism, but does not render the situation in the school any less difficult nor does it help to solve the problem. The very fact that the children of our Junior and Senior High schools are compelled to keep their belongings securely locked at all times is abundant proof of the presence of thieves. Our truant law compels the attendance at school of this type of child to the detriment of the entire school.

"Another question is of the power a teacher should have to discipline a pupil. Is it fair to a teacher to expect him to maintain order and decorum in the classroom with no effective means of punishment of the troublemaker? At present about the only means our teachers have in our Junior High schools is reduction of classroom credits or detention after school. The pupil who has five teachers and is cited for detention by each one of them, very frequently walks out of school, reports to none of them, and there is nothing the teacher can do. At best the child only suffers 20 per cent of the assessed penalties. It is very idealistic to dream that the teacher should make the instruction so alluring that the pupil will just naturally want to be good. As a parent I have frequently required tasks of my children that they did not particularly enjoy. The teacher must often do the same. The instruction that one child enjoys, frequently causes another child to be 'bored to extinction.' In any case a child must learn sooner or later to do many things he does not particularly enjoy, for that is life.

"I submit the foregoing for the consideration of parents and everyone interested in the welfare of our schools."

HEAVIES CAN'T FIGHT

Eddie Hart and a sportsman's syndicate have snatched Ralph Odel from the University of Southern California football squad and embarked the young man on a pugilistic career.

Hart is very enthusiastic. The old Princeton captain and tackle points to Odel's youth, size, speed, punch, durability, gameness and aggressiveness. The candidate is to be taken east and given the finest coaching and training obtainable.

It's a noble experiment worthy of success, but similar ones have proved that champions, especially those of the larger dimensions, are not made that way.

Heavyweight champions just have to grow up, like John L. Corbett, Fitz, Jeff, Johnson, Dempsey and Tunney.

Jim Braddock wasn't fondled. Neither was Joe Louis. They simply were chucked in there when professional handlers considered them ready.

Every time I see or read of a weight consoer a heavy-weight, I think of the time Los Angeles man turned what he considered a splendid prospect over to Fred (Windly) Windsor, voluble California cauliflower character who had a hand in the development of Jack Dempsey.

BRIGHT AND GAY

"See that he gets the best of everything," were the orders given Windsor. The young man got all that, and then some, for six months. Things being what they were, Windsor wasn't in any hurry to start his pupil. Windsor was getting what to him at the time was a handsome retainer.

At the end of six months the millionaire grew impatient. He was supremely confident that his protegee could wade through an army of pachyderms, and insisted upon action. He got it in the way of the softest kind of an amateur match for his charge.

The champion-to-be gave an excellent imitation of Gypsy Joe Beckett in reverse.

"What was the difficulty?" the sponsor wanted to know.

"He needs a little more time," advised Windsor. Six more months of schooling followed.

Then again an easy test and once more the starch.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT

Disappointed, the man of money demanded an explanation.

"The boy's the right age, isn't he, Mr. Windsor?" he asked.

"Twenty, which is perfect for a start," replied the trainer.

"Big enough?"

"Six feet one, 190 pounds. Ideal."

"Fast?"

"I don't see how Jim Corbett could have been any faster."

"Punch?"

"Dempsey couldn't have done any more damage with an ax."

"Joe Grimm had a china chin in comparison."

"Game?"

"Anyone who has gloves laced on his hands is game."

"To a fault?"

"Does he like the business?"

"I can't keep him out of the gymnasium."

"Then tell me, Mr. Windsor what in the world is wrong with my heavy-weight?" summed up the backer.

"Well," replied Windsor, scratching his head, "maybe he can't fight."

That's the trouble with practically all carefully manufactured ringmen. They can't fight.

CAGERS SEE AMERICA

With its growth in attendance, basketball has assumed football proportions in line of travel.

Ohio State's hoop squad next winter will outdo the Carlisle Indians of happy memory and the more restless Notre Dame gridiron teams of the past in the matter of getting around the country.

Not only will the Scarlet cagers play their usual 12 Big Ten games and three or four non-conference contests, but the Buckeyes also will take a Christmas holiday tour which will find them appearing on both coasts within a period of 12 days or so.

Two engagements with Southern California, and one with California have been booked, with skirmishes with Nebraska and Utah on the way out included. Following the far western joust, the Buckeyes will return to Columbus for a couple of days' rest, and then enroute for New York, where they are to collide with the New York university array at Madison Square Garden.

So, the new slogan in Columbus is, "Make the basketball team and see America first."

RACING SHELLS COSTLY

Some idea of what it takes to operate collegiate crew racing is had in the fact that the 15 shells the University of California has are valued in the neighborhood of $17,000.

LARGEST SQUAD

The largest squad in the history of the Olympic Games will represent the United States in Berlin. A total of 385 athletes, both men and women, are to be taken to Germany.

'Bank' City In League

K. OF C. NEW THREAT: ELKS MEET GROCERS

"Beat the Bank!" With that as a motto, City league baseball teams begin their "new season" at the Municipal Bowl this week, doubleheaders being on tap tonight and Thursday.

Games this evening match the Latter Day Saints with the South Methodists at 7:30, and the Elks with Joe's Grocery in the 9 o'clock feature.

By "Beating the Bank," the City leaguers mean they want to prevent the Commercial Nationals from making a clean sweep of both halves of the split season—a feat unaccomplished since 1929 when George Lackey led the Tiernans through an undefeated season.

While most observers believe the second-half will be a repetition of the first, with the Commercial, Elks and First National bank making a three-sided race of it, a new "menace" appeared today in the Knights of Columbus.

The "Cagery" have been revitalized, and will start the "new season" Thursday with a whole roster of new ball players. Since they tackle the Commercial Thursday night their rejuvenation will be watched with special interest.

Only Earl and Al Halderman and Herb Meyer remain of the first-half team. Horace Ritter will be pitching with Theo. Quanton back of the bat. Harold Pangle, the professional football star, has signed to play first base, with Frank Labrucherie on second. Les Fulsan at third and Melvin Beaty at shortstop. Elwood Ritter will roam right field, flanked by Meyer and Halderman.

The second-half schedule follows. President Kenneth Morrison pointing out that next week's games are scheduled Monday and Tuesday rather than Monday and Thursday:

Monday, June 22—Latter Day Saints vs. M. E. South, 7:30 p. m.; Elks Club vs. Joe's Market, 9 p. m.

Schmeling Off For Germany In Zep Tuesday

NEW YORK, June 22.—(UP)—Max Schmeling planned another quiet day of rest today before leaving tomorrow night aboard the Zepelin Hindenburg for his native Germany.

He is leaving it to Promoter Mike Jacobs to iron out difficulties with Madison Square Garden over his potential bout with Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock in September.

"I am not so much interested in money as the championship," he said. "Americans' all are interested in money—not me." His little Manager Joe Jacobs said that they had turned down $152,000 in offers ranging from drink to endorsing a new drink.

WATER SMOOTH FOR CREWS AT POUKEEPSIE

POUKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 22.—(UP)—Bright sunshine with clear skies and a slight breeze prevailed today for the 37th Intercollegiate Rowing association regatta which will be rowed at dusk on the Hudson river.

The outlook was for calm water with virtually no wind when the varsity shells of California, Cornell, Washington, Columbia, Syracuse, Pennsylvania and Navy clash at 5 p. m. (EDT) in the feature four-mile race.

Washington and California, the Pacific Coast entrants, ruled even-money favorites for the varsity at 5 p. m. The race will start with Cornell the runner-up at 8:5.

The vanguard of an expected crowd of 80,000 started moving across the river shortly after noon to take up vantage points on the bank of the Hudson, or to watch the races from the observation train or from river craft anchored near the finish.

The finish line was jammed with palatial yachts; excursion steamers and rowboats. Several coast guard cutters patrolled the waters. A naval destroyer was anchored near the finish.

Separated by a meagre half-game, the two clubs opened a four-game series today against second divisioners—the Cubs vs. Boston and the Cards vs. Philadelphia.

Since May 25 when the Cubs occupied sixth place in the standings, they have made up 6½ games on the Cardinals—most of the gain being accounted for in their sensational string of victories which was stopped at 15 straight by the last-place Brooklyn Dodgers in the second game of a double-header yesterday.

After winning the opening encounter, 7 to 2, the Cubs were tied with the Cards a few minutes yesterday for the leadership until they fell 6 to 4 before Van Lingle Mungo's artful hurling in the nightcap. Bill Lee became the first Cub hurler to lose a ball game since June 2.

Joe Cronin isn't picking out any easy touches for Bob Grove. Seven of "Lefty's" first nine victories were against first division clubs.

The Seattle Athletic club women's relay team, Petty, Buckley, Lea and McKean, set a new record of 4:47.5 in the 400-meter relay.

Paul Wolf, Los Angeles, defeated John Higgins, Providence, R. I., defending champion, in the 300-meter individual medley, setting a new American record of 4:02.4.

All but a scant few defending champions met new marks in their specialties during three days of Olympic prelude competition.

Ralph Flanagan, Florida freestyle, set a new American record of 10:07 in the 880-yard free style Sunday, with the vaunted Jack Medina, Seattle record-breaker, finishing third behind Bob Pirie, Canadian distance champion.

Marshall Wayne, of Miami-Biltmore, dethroned Dick Degener, Detroit Athletic club, as high dive champion.

LIGHTNING AND RAIN CANCELS BRITISH OPEN

HOYLAKE, June 22.—(UP)—Lightning struck the Wallasey clubhouse, seriously injuring a spectator, just before the officials decided to cancel play in the opening qualifying round today of the British Open golf championship. It was the first time the tournament had been postponed since it was played at St. Andrews in 1910.

Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn., who won the title in 1935, was standing in a hallway when a bolt of lightning crashed through the roof and caused a lighting fixture to fall. The injured spectator was taken to a hospital.

The two courses, Hoylake and Wallasey over which the 36-hole qualifying round will be held, were virtually unplayable when the officials decided to postpone the first round until tomorrow. Rain left water inches deep on most of the greens.

Lightning struck near a caddy, carrying an umbrella, knocking him to the ground. The bolt wrecked the umbrella and singed his hair, but he otherwise was unhurt.

Approximately 72 players out of a field of about 250 had finished when the tournament committee decided to cancel today's play.

Henry Cotton, British Open champion two years ago, was the only loser as a result of the cancellation. He had a 67, six under par, for the Wallasey course, and had a lead of five strokes over his nearest rival.

Most of the Americans agreed the postponement was the only sporting thing to do.

"Most of the greens were unplayable," said Sarazen.

The first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying test will be played tomorrow, setting the tournament back one day and making the final fall Saturday.

SEE GREAT DEAL OF THIS KELLEY

Harry Kelley, above, has been long in the majors for the past six seasons, but, as the round right-hander of the Philadelphia Athletics explains, he has been covered over more times than a politician's past life. Connie Mack drafted a real star from Atlanta in Kelley, who won more than 200 games in 10 years in the Southern Association. American League clubs have found the 30-year-old recruit as troublesome as did those of the Dixie circuit.

TENNIS

Dates for the Orange County Public Parks Championships will be set today as July 5 and July 12, the competition to be held at Fullerton, with the winners going to Los Angeles for the Southern California playoffs July 26.

Chairman H. G. Wetherell or any of his assistant committees—Kenneth Ranney and Toby White of Santa Ana, George Boege of Fullerton, "Hoosie" Chilson of Anaheim, and Tom Rippey and Bob Peacock of Laguna Beach—will accept entries. There will be competition in men's and women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles. Singles fees are $1.50, the others $2.

Gene Mako of Los Angeles, U. S. Davis-cupper, turned back after Shariff of England, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4. Baron Gottfried von Cramm, the blond German who is seeded No. 2 in the tourney, eliminated G. L. France of England, 6-2, 6-0, 6-1.

"Bunny" Austin of England defeated his countryman, P. D. B. Spence 6-7, 6-0, 6-3, 6-1 and Jacques Brugnon of France came back strong to eliminate the Britisher, R. J. Ritchie, 5-7, 4-6, 8-6, 6-0.

Jack Crawford of Australia, seeded No. 5, had no trouble winning over Daniel Prens of Germany, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

He did it with a sensational 64-10 under par—that left his nearest competitor wobbling home three strokes behind his prize-winning 72-hole aggregate of 274. His last round listed five birdies and 11 pars.

Guidahl said he had to shatter par on the final 18 holes or give up golf and take a job selling cars for a living.

GRANT'S GREAT RALLY DEFEATS GERMAN CUPPER

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 22.—(UP)—America's four outstanding men tennis players won their first-round singles matches today in the all-England championships. Three other entrants from the United States were eliminated.

The four American victors were Byron (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta; Donald Budge of Oakland; John Van Ryn of Philadelphia and Wilmer Allison of Texas, United States champion.

Gerald Stratford of San Francisco, W. W. Robertson of Pasadena, and Hal Surface of Kansas City were eliminated.

Of the American big four, only "Bitsy" Grant had difficulty in opening play before more than 15,000 spectators. He won after a five-set struggle with Henner Henkel of the German Davis Cup team. The score was 5-7, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-2.

Grant rallied gamely. Henkel out-generated "Bitsy" during the first two sets, repeatedly jockeying him out of position and then smashing close-range kills over the net. Grant was unable to handle the German's cannon ball service.

In the third set, Grant was trailing 3-5 when he rallied magnificently. As "Bitsy" surged ahead he dropped only two points in the next four games. The fourth set went with services until Grant broke through in the tenth game.

In the final set, the weary German cracked up and netted repeatedly.

None of the other three top-flight Americans had much trouble, nor did Fred Perry of England, defending the title for the second straight time.

Red-headed Donald Budge—America's chief hope of victory—eliminated H. A. Hare of England, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4. Van Ryn turned back Roland Morton of England, 6-3, 8-6, 6-2, and Allison downed E. J. Ullken of England, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Perry, the world's No. 1 player and favorite to repeat for the American entrant, Stratford, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1. Leopold De Borman of Belgium put out Robertson, 2-6, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, and Nigel Strang of England

New Mascot For Boys Of "Y" Camp

ORANGE, June 22.—A group of Y.M.C.A. boys returning Saturday night from Camp Osceola left behind them a new camp mascot, according to a report made by Richard King on their arrival. The mascot is a baby deer which three of the lads found apparently abandoned by its mother and which was too weak to walk.

The fawn was taken to camp and fed. The following day it followed the boys about in camp and was named "Jimmie." The mascot will be left at Camp Osceola during the summer and plans are being made to provide for its care during the winter.

JIMMY FIDLER in —HOLLYWOOD—

HOLLYWOOD — Idle chatter: Joan Crawford does her sun-bathing by the clock; a servant calls at the end of each fifteen minute period, and Joan turns over. Peas from the same pod: Astrid Allwyn and Claire Dodd. No star looks less actressy off screen than Joan Bennett. Loretta Young's protracted illness now has studios re-arranging production schedules to assure her of no less than ten days rest between pictures. Randolph Scott is going in for loud sport coats; his latest brown-and-white check is an eye-blinker.

Most logical name change: The movie dog Prince, now grown, will henceforth be known as King. Billie Burke walks with mincing pace, and men just cannot keep step with her. Handsome new devil sure to thrill the ladies: Don Ameche, from radioland. Shirley Temple has a grown-up way of eyeing people closely and steadily, as if to catalogue them in her mind. Ginger Rogers gives her face a three-day tonic at regular intervals by wearing olive oil, but no powder or rouge. Added starter for least-changed-by-success title: Mary Brian. Jack Oakie's priceless crack: "Beauty contest winners hired for picture bits are fired with enthusiasm. They're fired the same way as the end of their pictures!"

Rochelle Hudson is in a fret over stories that she is in love with Harry Richmond. She does not like such tales, and denies them vehemently. She says persons interested in publicity started the report, with no other basis than that she and Harry lunched together a few times. The story grew, despite denials.

"The day Richmond left town," she said, "somebody sent a girl to the airport and had her photographed with her back to the camera, waving goodbye. Back view, she was my double. I stopped any possible publication of the pictures with my name under it."

It is a pity the screen offers no niche for women just past thirty. Almost invariably, popular actresses fade at the third decade-stone. Gloria Swanson, Mae Murray, Betty Compson, Dorothy MacKall, Colleen Moore, scores more bowed out at thirty. Somehow, there is no place in the movies for women between thirty and forty. I can count on my fingers the actresses of that age-period who retain even a small portion of their former popularity. Yet producers as well as public will agree that Misses Swanson, Compson, MacKall and their sister players must be rated capable actresses.

Gloria and Mae especially seem like two perennial youngies. From ten feet they look as fresh and smooth-skinned as they did fifteen years ago, when they were stars. Inside the ten foot limit, of course, time etchings in their faces may be discerned. I think it remarkable that these two, who have lived so fully, have apparently captured the secret of eternal youth. Looking at others who were stars with Mae and Gloria, my wonderment increases, for the faces of others leave little doubt as to their true ages.

Fifteen Million Eggs Produced In County In 1934

CENSUS BUREAU REPORT GIVES EXACT FIGURES

More than fifteen million eggs were produced by Orange county chickens during 1934, according to a report made public today by the Census Bureau.

The purpose of the report, according to Director William L. Austin, of the Census Bureau, is to show the importance of chickens and turkeys in the agriculture of California and its fifty-eight counties.

The exact figure for egg production in Orange county during 1934 is 12,655,059 dozen based on reports from 1932 farms.

The census report shows 1978 Orange county farms, representing 32.4 percent of all farms in the county, had on hand 160,449 chickens over three months old on January 1, 1935.

With 1191 farms reporting, the total of chickens raised in the county during 1934 was 139,257, the census report shows.

Only 173 Orange county farms reported commercial turkey raising, and these farms had on hand 2072 turkeys over three months old on January 1, 1935.

Orange county stood nineteenth among California counties in egg production for 1934, according to the census report.

MENTON SEEKS SETTLEMENT OF TAX ARGUMENT

District Attorney W. F. Menton was in San Francisco today, en route to the state convention of district attorneys, at Lake Tahoe, and expected to contact Attorney General U. S. Webb for a ruling upon the status of $47,000 in delinquent tax collections, claimed both by Orange county school districts and the county supervisors.

Webb already has sent one ruling upon the question, holding that the money should be distributed to school districts, having been collected under school tax rates prior to adoption of the sales tax, which supplanted county school taxes.

The county supervisors, taking the view that since there are no longer county school taxes levied, the redemption fund belongs to the county, have ordered its transfer to the county general fund, intending to use it for lowering the county tax rate probably two cents or more, next year.

District Attorney Menton himself leans to that view, and has expressed the opinion that Attorney General Webb did not have a true understanding of the situation when the former ruling was made. He recently asked Webb for another ruling, which has not yet been issued. So Menton decided to stop personally in Webb's office while in San Francisco today, and seek the new ruling.

Meanwhile, court action appears more than likely, regardless of which way Webb rules. Various school districts have requested the fund to be apportioned to the schools, in line with Webb's first ruling, and appear to be ready to back their stand. The supervisors also favor resorting to court action before giving up the fund, they have indicated.

Auditor W. T. Lambert, upon whom rests the actual task of making disposition of the fund, is waiting for definite legal assurance where the money belongs.

FARM PRICES NOW AHEAD OF AVERAGES OF PAST SEASONS

Farm prices, while seeking lower levels in some leading items, are still substantially ahead of the levels of a year ago, generally speaking, according to a report just received by the farm advisor's office from the Giannini Foundation of Agricultural Economics of the University of California.

Hogs, lambs, and veal calves maintained their advance in May, but beef cattle were off 30 cents a hundredweight from the May, 1935 quotation. Sheep were $3.90 a hundredweight last May as against $2.50 in May, 1935 quotation. Sheep were $3.90 a hundredweight last May as against $3.50 in May, 1935. Eggs dropped from 23 cents to 18.5 cents a dozen in the same comparison.

Barley, wheat, oats and corn in May all declined from the May, 1935 quote, and the quotation for potatoes was 30 cents a bushel as against $1.20 for May, 1935, with this item subject to possible sharp changes as a result of the current shortage. Beans declined from $2.55 to $2.40 in the same comparison.

In the fruits, however, lemons recorded the sharp gain from 85 cents to $4.60 a box, and oranges rose from $1.35 to $1.60 a box between the two May's. Apples dropped from $1 to 75 cents a box in the same comparison.

The table sets forth that the average for all of the 24 items covered, as compared to the May, 1911 to 1915 average, has steadily risen for the past three years and now stands at 103 per cent of this formation, or averages increasing $11 a head over the May, 1935 figure.

HYMN-ANTHEM TO BE FEATURE SONG

A hymn-anthem entitled, "When God Speaks," written by Prof. Frank A. Simpkins and the Rev. Carlton C. Buck, was chosen last week by the music committee for the Southern California State Convention of Christian Churches, to be one of the outstanding numbers of this year's meeting.

The Rev. Buck, who is at present a resident of Arlington, was formerly a student in the Santa Ana schools. He graduated from Santa Ana high school, later entered the Bible Institute, and then attended the Southern California Christian college.

BUILDING LOAN GROUP WARNED ON SINGLE TAX

Members of the Orange County Building and Loan League, were warned at a dinner meeting at Hughes cafe, Fullerton, last week that every vote for the repeal of the sales tax will be a vote for the establishment of the single tax on land in California. This will lead directly into social revolution and communism.

The speaker was Neil Davis, secretary-treasurer of the California Building-Loan League, an association including 97 per cent of all building loan resources in the state. Walter J. Cadman, president of the county league presided at the meeting.

"The entire single tax plan is a dream based on a fallacy," Davis told members of the league. "New factories, new stores, homes, buildings and so forth, will not rise on non-income producing properties as proponents of the measure contend. The fallacy is that we do not have a constant increasing population and our production facilities now are many more times than our power to consume the products and services of these existing facilities."

Family Dinner
Is Compliment
To Newlyweds

Twice delayed because of illness of Los Angeles relatives, a dinner party at which Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Harnois complimented their son, Bruce Harnois, and his bride, the former Miss Pauline Winslow, took place yesterday in their home, 414 East Walnut street.

The introduction of the new Mrs. Harnois to members of the family circle was made a very happy occasion, and guests recognized its romantic possibilities by bringing gifts of silver, crystal and pottery for the young people to use and enjoy in the home they will establish.

The whole occasion was made a joyous one, and the dinner hour was made doubly enjoyable by the flower arrangement planned by Mrs. Harnois in connection with the radiance of many candles.

The family party included with the hosts, the complimented young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Harnois, and the son-in-law and daughter of the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sullivan; the grand-daughters of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Harnois and the uncle, aunt and cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harnois and son Nelson of this city; Mrs. Richard Thomas, Mrs. E. C. Griswold, Mrs. Alice McConchie and Mrs. Alice Howell, and his aunts from Los Angeles; and a group of cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart McChaffie and daughters, Miss Margaret and Ruth McChaffie, also from Los Angeles.

Absent members of this close family circle were the two brothers of Bruce Harnois, Duncan Harnois of the Burbank school faculty who is now in Washington, D.C., experiencing many side trips in advance of his early sailing for a summer abroad, and Creston Harnois, who is in the state bureau of employment at Sacramento, and one uncle, Richard Thomas, unable to be present because of illness.

Creston Harnois was home for a short visit last week, to offer his good wishes to his brother and new sister-in-law on their May 11 marriage in Yuma. He accompanied Dr. Dexter, formerly of Whittier college, who came from Sacramento to officiate at the wedding in San Dimas of Miss Ardath Spencer.

Eighthieth Birthday
Father's day in the Guy Belcher home, 418 West Second street, occasioned a family party marking the eightieth birthday anniversary of Mr. Belcher's mother, Mrs. Marion B. Scarce of this city.

Dinner at noon was served at a table brightened with flowers from the home gardens.

In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Belcher and daughter and son, Miss Marjane and Guy Jr.; a son-in-law and daughter of the home, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones and four months old son, Donald Eugene; of Southgate; Miss Jones' grandmother, Mrs. C. B. Wright, Southland visitor from Nebraska; Miss Josephine Keeler of Long Beach and Mrs. Scarce.

Trip and Houseparty
Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Rapp returned last night from a northern trip which successfully combined business and pleasure.

For the travelers found weather conditions ideal and experienced no unusual heat whatever although their itinerary included San Jose, Sacramento, Fresno and Stockton.

During the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Rapp, their daughter, Miss Patty Rapp, was hostess at a little house-party in their home, 1316 Greenleaf street. She had just completed her school year at Scripps college, Claremont, and entertained two of her college friends, Miss Bonnie Blair of South Pasadena, and Miss Margaret Mosher of Claremont.

White tapers gleamed at the altar, where baskets of peach and yellow gladioluses were arranged against a background of palms. Alan Revell was at the organ, playing solos as well as accompaniment for Miss Laura Joiner, who sang "Beckone" and "Serenity." Both wedding marches were included in the recital program.

Santa Anans to Leave
For New Home in Shasta City

A telegram received Saturday morning by Mrs. Fred H. Hein, 918 North Flower street, apprised her of the appointment received that day by Mr. Hein to the post of fish and game warden, to be stationed at Shasta City, in the northern part of the state.

Fred H. Hein has been preparing for the past few months to take the civil service examination for such a post, for which his interest in and love for outdoor life especially qualify him. He took the examinations recently in Los Angeles, with some 16,000 men, only 400 of whom came through with the required ratings. There were 16 appointments made among these 400, the grades and qualifications of the Santa Ana man giving him place among the 16.

He left Thursday morning for San Francisco and received his appointment very soon to the Shasta City post. Mrs. Hein and their two young sons, Ronald and Waldo, will remain with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Bowers, 1220 West Sixth street, until a suitable location is found in Shasta City. The family will be greatly missed here, and especially in First M. E. church and musical circles.

Mrs. Hein has spent the greater part of her life here and as Cleo Bowers went through Santa Ana schools. She is one of the favorite soloists in her church groups and is prominent in the Cecilian Singers. This feminine chorus held a picnic supper late last week in Irvine park, entertaining their families at a gala evening affair. Halstead McCormac, chorus director, was there with his bride, the former Miss Jeannette Lutes, and on behalf of the group, presented Mrs. Hein with a handsome leather writing portfolio.

Gay Family Event
The week end marked the beginning of a gay family reunion in the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. Raymond Smith and young son, Phillip, 109 East Sixteenth street.

Planning to spend a week in the family home, Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Crane, of Pasadena, and an aunt, Mrs. Lillie Edwards, of Wichita, arrived Saturday. Dr. Smith, Mr. Crane and the latter's brother, Zina Crane, of Huntington Beach spent the day deep sea fishing.

Members of the family planned a fish fry yesterday at Huntington Beach as a climax to a day on the shore. In the party were Dr. and Mrs. Smith and their son; Mrs. Smith's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Grames and daughter, Phyllis, of Pasadena, who were here for the week end; Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Crane, Mrs. Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. Zina Crane.

On Mrs. Edwards, who has been visiting in Southern California for the past year, expects to return home in the very near future.

Dinner for Visitors
Mr. and Mrs. George Scarvie, 1532 West Washington avenue, complimented Southland visitors from Knoxville, Tenn., Friday night at a little dinner party in their home. Table appointments were in orchid and lavender.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dodson and daughter, Barbara Jean, and Mr. and Mrs. George Dodson of Knoxville, with Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Guinn of Long Beach.

Mrs. Guinn, who is a daughter of the George Dodsons, became acquainted with Mr. Scarvie when they lived in Seattle, Wash. Mrs. Scarvie and Mrs. George P. Amos, South Ross street, will be among the guests Wednesday at a tea in the Guinn home honoring the Tennessee residents.

Handkerchief Shower
In celebration of her birthday anniversary, Mrs. H. R. Trott was showered with handkerchiefs this week at an afternoon meeting of X. N. O. club in the home of Mrs. W. R. Edwards, 2072 South Birch street.

Plans were made for a family picnic to be held at Huntington Beach July 1 at noon. Election of officers will be a feature of the day. Mrs. Edwards served home-made ice cream and cake to her guests, who included Messrs. C. R. McPhie, E. E. Perry, H. R. Trott, B. A. Hershey, M. O. Johnson, E. E. Edwards, J. A. Taylor, W. L. Harbert, E. E. Lentz.

Girl Scouts
Girl Scouts of troop No. 5 were reminded today that their regular meetings for the summer have been discontinued, and that activities will not be resumed until fall.

Several members of the troop expected to attend the all day camps planned for the month of July at Camp Irving. Other members expect to enroll at Camp Rockhill in August, it was announced. Those unable to attend will be invited to a houseparty at the Herbert Rankin beach cottage August 26. Mrs. Rankin, their leader, is expected to return home from her Alaskan trip in advance of that date.

Other summer gatherings for troop 5 will include patrol affairs under auspices of the new patrol leaders and their second.

Wed Today

Advent Christian church of Tustin was setting for a quiet wedding at 10 o'clock this morning when Miss Dorothy L. Doughty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Doughty, 134 Bonita street, Tustin, became the bride of R. J. Lillard, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lillard, 1114 South Cypress street, Santa Ana.

The single ring ceremony was used by the pastor, the Rev. Howard E. Nason. Altar decorations were baskets of pink and white gladioluses, dahlias and ferns. Mrs. Robert C. Korff played on the organ "I Love You Truly" preceding the ceremony, and during the marriage rites, played softly "O Promise Me." Approximately 25 close relatives and friends were present.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Lillard were honor guests at luncheon today at the home of the bride's parents and will be entertained at 7 o'clock dinner this evening in the George Lillard home.

Mr. Lillard attended high school at Knox City, Texas, and is an employee of the Pontiac Agency. His bride was a member of the 1935 graduating class of Tustin Union High school. Following a brief honeymoon trip, they will establish their home on Cypress street.

Church Societies
First Presbyterian
More than 40 members and guests of First Presbyterian Ladies' Aid Southwest section enjoyed a picnic dinner Thursday evening in Jack Fisher park.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson had made the ice cream which was served with cake as a feature of the dessert course. Hunter Leach presided over the sale of an angel food cake baked by Miss Robbie Jones, and a nice sum was netted for the section's treasury.

The program included a spelling bee conducted by Mrs. J. R. Moore, and group singing led by Mrs. A. J. Beckman.

On the committee in charge were Mrs. Roy Johnson, leader; Mrs. Wayne West, Mrs. D. B. Hamilton, Mrs. Elizabeth Decker and Mrs. Moore.

Attended by members, their husbands and families, the picnic was preceded by a business meeting of the section. Members decided to disperse with regular meetings until September. The group was asked to continue with its time growing plan, and label project during the summer.

Episcopal
Mrs. E. F. Museum's home, 2111 North Ross street, was scene Wednesday of a party enjoyed by members of Messiah Guild of Episcopal Church of Messiah. Hostesses with Mrs. Museum were Mrs. James Farrage and Mrs. Charles Hoehn.

Four tables of games were in play, with prizes going to Miss Lorraine Farrage, Mrs. George Chapman and Mrs. C. E. Evans, for high scores in monopoly, contract and auction bridge.

Miss Farrage and Miss Katherine Dawson assisted the hostesses in serving refreshments.

Tentative plans were made for a Friday party to be held in the G. E. Richardson home in September.

First Methodist
Miss Doris Welles, who is enjoying a furlough from her missionary duties in India, was honor guest Wednesday afternoon at a meeting of First Methodist Foreign Missionary society in the church. Linen supplies for Miss Welles to take with her to Calcutta next winter were provided by the assembled group.

Mrs. S. E. Hearn conducted the meeting with Mrs. Henry Guthrie conducting devotionals on "God and Childhood," in keeping with Childhood as the theme for the day. Mrs. F. B. Sheldon, superintendent of children's work in the Pacific branch of the Methodist missionary organization, told of her work. Mrs. J. F. Plack talked briefly and Mrs. E. E. Ulrich gave readings.

Baby Son Welcomed

Plans of Mrs. Edith Thatcher to go north for a vacation visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Reark of Oakland, were considerably hastened by the receipt of a telegram Saturday, announcing the birth on Friday, June 19, of a little son to Mrs. Reark, the former Miss Eleanor Thatcher.

Mrs. Thatcher, whose home is at 508 East Chestnut street and who is in the English department of Santa Ana high school, left yesterday for the north to greet her new grandson and also the small daughter of the Reark home, Barbara, who is now three and a half years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ross, 1502 North Flower street, are entertaining as a houseguest, a long time friend, Mrs. Anna Carter of Stockton, who will be here for several months. The group was joined Friday by Mrs. Carter's daughter, Mrs. W. E. Ferguson and son, Bobby, who made a surprise visit to this city. Mrs. Ferguson will return home in a few days' time, while her little son and her grandmother will be here for a longer stay.

Alice Wade and her youngest daughter Joan, will be with Mrs. Adams and her baby son Farrell in their Myrtle street home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moomaw and sons, Dick and Donna, 190 South Van Ness avenue, left Sunday for Los Angeles, where they will spend the next few weeks while Mr. Moomaw attends summer school at University of California at Los Angeles. Mr. Moomaw who has been shop

THE TWYMMIES

Story by HAL COCHRAN Illustrations by GEORGE SCARDO

The Twymies tried with all their might to shelter their eyes from the light that glared from all the light bulbs. "It is awful," Dotty said.

"It's bright, but I can hardly see. This is a mean trick, seems to me. If this keeps up much longer, I'll have pains all through my head."

"Let's run and try to get away," she then heard little Windy say. "They promised 'they would treat us right, and then they flashed this awful light. If any-

"Now, wait!" one of the guards cried out. "It is a bit too bright, no doubt, and we are sorry that we played this little trick on you. We do not wish to hurt your sight. Give us a chance to make it right. 'Twill be no task to stare right at the brightness, when we're through."

The other guard said, "I know what you mean, so let's stop on this spot." "All right," one of the Twymies said. "We'll do just as you say."

"But, hurry with your little plan, and do for us what you can. It is impossible for us to carry on this way."

The first guard then cried loudly. "Here are fine dark glasses. Have no fear in wearing them. They'll work just fine and ease all of your eyes."

"Just put them on your noses, now. We do not need to show you how. You'll find, when you have tried them, that they are the proper size."

The Twymies grabbed the glasses and brave Coppy shouted, "They are grand! Why, now the lights look beautiful. My glasses make them green."

"And mine are quite a pretty red," another little Twymie said. "Right now, the things around us make a very pretty scene."

(The Twymies reach a beautiful castle in the next story.)

Four Rescued From Death In Newport Bay, Ocean

CROWDS VISIT BEACH CITIES OVER WEEK END

Four persons were rescued from drowning this weekend as thousands of Southern Californians thronged Orange county's beaches for a brief respite from the inland heat. Two of those rescued were taken from the surf. The other two were saved from drowning in Newport Bay near Balboa island.

Reports from beaches to the north of Orange county indicated that strong rip tides and cross currents kept life guards busy dragging floundering swimmers from the surf. Orange county was fortunate, in that only one was assisted in gaining the shore at Huntington Beach and another at Laguna Beach.

Yesterday at 3:15 p. m., Life Guard Bob Hilton went to the assistance of 16-year-old David Rorhig, who had been swept under the Huntington Beach pier by a strong cross current. The youth, who is a resident of Huntington Beach, was tiring rapidly when the life guard came to his rescue and guided him through the breakers to the shore.

At Laguna Beach, when Mrs. A. H. Adel, 445 Orange Grove avenue, ventured too far into the surf, she became exhausted and it was necessary for life guards to assist her in coming through the breakers. She was resuscitated by pulmotor squad and later treated by Dr. B. J. Van Doren.

Loren Smith, Santa Ana attorney, yesterday afternoon saved the lives of two boys, Myron Martin, 13, and Harold Martin, 14, of 345 Grand avenue, Orange, when he noticed they were in distress in the deep channel off Balboa island. One of the boys had become exhausted and had reached for his brother. Both went under and were struggling when Smith, who was on shore, saw them. He swam to their assistance and helped them to shore. It was necessary to call for the Newport Beach pulmotor squad.

Authorities in the various beach towns reported that the crowds this weekend were heavier than at any other time this season. Seal Beach saw the largest crowd on its beaches in the past two years, it was reported.

CREDIT GROUP CLOSES BEACH CITY MEETING

LAGUNA BEACH, June 22.—After transacting much important business during a two-day session, delegates to the convention of the Production Credit corporation of the 11th district, Farm Credit administration, returned to their homes Sunday. Four western states were represented, delegates coming from Arizona, California, Nevada and Utah.

Among the highlights of the four sessions, held at the Woman's club building, were the announcements of amounts loaned in the 11th district for farm production purposes. The aggregate is over $50,000,000, $35,000,000 of which has been loaned in California alone. A marked upturn in agricultural recovery is evident, as reflected in charts and figures showing accretion in loan values of western farms, it was stated.

Social features of the convention included welcome by Mayor Luther F. Mallory, of Laguna Beach; a banquet at White House tavern; sightseeing trips in the vicinity of Laguna Beach, Emerald Bay, Coast Royal and other points of local interest. Business arrangements were handled by S. P. Applewhite, of Berkeley, secretary of the Production Credit corporation.

T. P. Coates, president of the corporation, handled the gavel at the business sessions. R. W. Young, general counsel for the Farm Credit administration, with headquarters in Oakland; W. R. Andrew, vice president of the Production Credit corporation; W. F. Nixon, coordinator for the local field service of the Federal Farm Credit administration; C. W. Hudson, of the Federal Intermediate bank of Oakland and F. R. Hodgson, of the Federal Land bank, Berkeley, were speakers at the different sessions. The guests were housed at Hotel la Casa del Camarino and Coast Inn, arrangements for their comfort having been made by George A. Pontus, president of the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Nelson, of Hazel street. She graduated from the local grammar school and the Fullerton District Junior college. He is employed in Orange. SCHOOL HEAD IN LA HABRA GETS PORTERVILLE POSITION

LA HABRA, June 22.—Emmett R. Berry, superintendent of the La Habra schools for the past 10 years, today announced his resignation following the acceptance of an offer to take over the office of superintendent of schools of Porterville.

It is understood that board members will hold a meeting this week and will accept his resignation at that time. Berry's contract with the La Habra school district still has two years before expiration.

A good deal of sentiment is attached to Berry's decision to accept the Porterville position. Years ago, Berry attended the Porterville high school, and graduated from the Porterville High school. An additional motive for his decision to accept the position is the fact that his mother lives on a ranch near Porterville.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry and their three children will leave for Porterville within the next few days. His contract with the Porterville school board is effective July 1. The new office is considered an advancement by Berry, who is at present in charge of three schools. There will be six schools under his supervision in Porterville.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 22.—Edwin W. Elliott, former principal of the Torrance Junior high school, has been appointed an instructor at the Huntington Beach Union High school. He will succeed Ray Duus, who has resigned to enter private business.

Installation of new equipment has been underway for several days and drilling will start next week.

MISS KINSMAN BECOMES BRIDE OF H. ROBINSON

YORBA LINDA, June 22.—The Wee Kirk of the Heather in Glendale was the setting Saturday for the wedding of Miss Joan Kinsman and Harry William Robinson. The single ring service was read at 6 p. m. by the Rev. B. A. Basham of the First Congregational church of Santa Barbara, in the presence of more than 125 friends.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, G. C. Kinsman, wore a floor-length gown of mousseline de soie, and a fingertip veil which fell from a cap of tulle, fitted closely to her head. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of gardenias, bouvardia and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Joe Critchfield, of Anaheim, a recent bride who formerly was Miss Virginia Shaw, of Fullerton, attended her as matron of honor. She was gowned in pink lace and carried an old fashioned bouquet of Cecil Bruner roses, and delphinium, while the bridesmaids, Miss Edith Robinson, of Artesia, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary Neeley, of Yorba Linda, wore turquoise blue mousseline de soie and carried sweet peas in pastel tints also made up in old fashioned bouquets.

Lynn Guttery, of Bakersfield, attended the bridegroom as best man and Joe Critchfield, of Anaheim, and James Grieves, of Fullerton, were ushers.

The couple will live in Bakersfield, where he is employed. The bride attended the Yorba Linda grammar schools and Fullerton Union High school and District Junior college; was graduated from Stanford in 1930, and had work also at U. C. L. A. and the University of California at Berkeley, where she was a member of the Chi Omega sorority and taught school at Yorba Linda the past year.

SHALL BE READY TO BEGIN WORK ON BEACH WELL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 22.—A steel derrick was completed Sunday on the Shell Oil company lease on the James Irvine 40-acre tract in section seven, a mile east of Huntington Beach. Installation of equipment is progressing rapidly and the project will be pushed to completion by the Shell, working three crews.

The area around the well is leased from Five Points across the country to Costa Mesa, the Union Oil company and the Shell holding the country practically solid.

Geologists claim there is room for a structure between areas that have been previously tested by drilling and the area may be found to be similar to the Seal Beach field, on both sides of which

"Ready?" he said when the song was done, and they came again into the sweet, dark night, and walked to a little park, nearby, where the silhouette of a new church was slim and black in the sky. Paris lay far below. Marcia leaned across a wooden railing, at one side of the park, and saw that steps led to Paris, far below.

"Let's walk down," she said, and held out her hand.

"Just a minute," Gently Bob swung her around until she faced him. "I promised to let you take your time. But I have to know, Marcia. What are you going to do about us?"

"She turned back, her thoughts still lost in the music, not knowing clearly what her answer would be. Suddenly a girl's laughter was very near.

"Slumming in Montmartre? Isn't it a beautiful, beautiful night? I came for a breath of fresh air."

"I have an escort—in there," she motioned to the low, dark building.

"We were just going," Bob answered. "Marcia wants to try these steps."

"Oh, yes?" Rosita's laughter broke into hurried little bells. "But it will make you so tired! Remember how long it took the night we walked down, Bob?"

In the semi-darkness Marcia saw Bob's eyes narrow and the swift step he took toward Rosita.

"It must have been some other man, Rosita. I've never been here with you."

"Oh, no? Then how did you know where to come?"

"I came with Jimmy one night after you girls had gone to bed. But see here, I'm not answering anybody's catechism. You're a nice little girl, Rosita, but run along. Beat it."

Alone again, Bob caught Marcia to him. "You don't believe her, do you? It's made up, though the devil knows why. She's wooing money and what she sees in my pockets."

He stopped short and Marcia knew that he, too, was recalling his own phase about marriage for financial advancement.

"You needn't believe me, of course," Bob said then, "but Jimmy will be a witness that he took me there."

RUNAWAY BRIDE

Bob held out his arms. "Shall we dance?" he said.

dancing partners. "Oh, but you must. I'll go get Pierre. You'll like Pierre!"

She was gone for some time. Marcia was sure that she had forgotten her promise and was glad. Posing a man for a dance was a little disgusting. But eventually Rosita returned with a tall, dark Frenchman who bowed very low and danced very well. He began to hold her too closely and she tried to move away. When she did he laughed a little. Someone was taking flashlight pictures and attention was turned on the photographer. Advertisements, or Sunday news pictures, Marcia guessed. She hoped that the camera would miss her and this—this gigolo. Then, as though taking advantage of the fact that all attention was centered elsewhere, Pierre bent over, and kissed her on the lips—long, hard, unyieldingly. She broke away with a little scream.

Nobody heard. The flashlight was doing its stunt and the sound was lost. She ran back to the table, her face white and her eyes blazing. She was glad that Pierre did not come back to her but she heard him asking for his franks from Bob a little later.

It was spring in Paris and there were flowers on the street corners and music in the air. Together the four of them, joined occasionally by Jimmy, who was Count Von Wormstedt, went to the haunts of Paris. Seven moons slid down the sky. The trees in the Luxembourg Garden turned to an enchanted green. The group went to the Bois and watched the swans float on the cool black water. They visited the shops along the Rue de la Paix. Sitting in the dining room of the hotel one night, her bright hair radiant against the cool green of her frock, Marcia missed Phil.

"His chief's in town and he's having dinner with him," Camilla explained. "Phil has a new idea he has worked out."

"It's strange without him," she answered. "Not quite complete."

Bob glanced at her, then glanced away, but he studied the stem of a tall goblet.

"Shall we dance?" He held out his arms.

"Lovely lady, I'm falling madly in love with you!" The musicians sang the melody through trumpet and clarinet and banjo.

"I am," Bob said. "Can't we excuse ourselves and leave? I want to tell you about it."

So Marcia got her cloak, the silver wrap that matched her bag and bracelets, and they found a cab and were rolling across the town as though romance were something that they would discover together. They dismissed the carriage at Montmartre. Music, sweet as though it had been strained of all harshness, rich and full as though the refining sieve had not compressed it, came from a low, dark building.

Bob led the way inside, and they found chairs in a darkened room where there were many people who sipped sherry and listened to music. As her eyes grew accustomed to the darkness, Marcia distinguished faces. There was a profile of a cameo clearness—dark hair looped over ears—a bright frock. It was Rosita! The musicians were playing softly so she did not call Bob's attention to the girl.

Two letters. Wanda's return address was in the corner of one. Safe in her own room, with the wind blowing across the wide floor and the bed turned down, Marcia opened the letter and began to read:

"Marcia, my dear, I know you want to know what happened at the wake that followed your going, so I'll not waste time on inquiring about the state of your nerves and how you are coming along with the poodle and a lot of broken illusions. Here I sat

PASTOR'S SON FILLS PULPIT IN S. A. CHURCH

Last night's services at Trinity Lutheran church, East Sixth and Lacy streets, were of special interest, for they were planned as a reunion of all those confirmed during recent years, and were conducted by young men of the membership.

The Rev. Gerhard Schmoock, son of the pastor, the Rev. William Schmoock, came from his own charge, Burbank First Lutheran church, to take the pulpit. He was a member of the 1924 confirmation class. Others were George Helberg of the 1931 class; Robert Buchheim, 1932; and Everett Wendorf, 1934. Enno Schmoock, of the 1931 class, was organist.

"The Fellowship of Christians With God and With One Another" was subject of the thoughtful address by the young pastor. This was delivered to a large audience in which youth predominated. Services were followed by a congregational reception in the parish hall where the Young People's society presented a short play, "The Wedding."

Enno Schmoock opened the program with a piano solo, "Valse Brillante" by Maria-Zucca. Characters in "A Wedding" were cleverly portrayed by Robert Buchheim, the bridegroom; Miss Bernadine Helberg, the bride; George Helberg and Everett Wendorf, groomsmen; Miss Dorothy Nielsen, the bridegroom's mother; Miss Maxine Struck, the bride's aunt; and Enno Schmoock, the bride's father.

The play was followed by a series of games and the serving of refreshments by the host society.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

IF THE EARTH WERE FLAT, IDENTICAL TIME WOULD PREVAIL IN EVERY CITY OF THE WORLD.

OF course we know that the earth is round, but there have been doubters even up to the present century. The matter of time is one positive proof that the earth is not flat. On a flat earth, the sun would set at the same instant throughout the land. The Greeks knew the earth was a sphere, more than a thousand years before Columbus made his famous voyages.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

"MADAME LA RESSOURCE"

DAUGHTER of a Prussian field marshal, Catherine of Anhalt-Zerbst was determined to become a thorough Russian, when, in 1745, at the age of 15, she married Peter, nephew and heir to the Empress Elizabeth. To master the Russian language, she got up many a night and walked the floor barefoot, repeating her lessons.

Peter III soon depended on Catherine for his decisions, so much so that he called her "Madame La Ressource." But often he would insult and kick her. In 1762 he was dethroned and Catherine became empress. His death was said to be due to "apoplexy."

As empress, Catherine was one of the most resourceful and determined rulers of Russia. But the peasants' lot became worse and rebellions were numerous. She crushed them all, making life more miserable for the poor, while she lavished countless wealth on her numerous lovers. After 34 years of rule, Catherine died in 1796, of apoplexy, this time real.

Today's Guest Editorial

By
Stanley M. Reinhaus, Vice President of the Board of Governors of the State Bar Association of California.

The "Guest Editor" selects his own subject matter and it may or may not agree with the opinions of the publisher. The Register will invite and publish daily a "guest editorial" by some prominent, practical Orange county citizen.

A MUCH MALIGNED PROFESSION

In former times disputes were settled by force of arms. First, by the parties thereto themselves under the theory of might makes right. Thereafter, in the event of a dispute each party was entitled to employ a knight or gladiator to represent him in physical combat, and the winner of such combat was the winner of the dispute. Nations taking their jurisprudence from the English common law system no longer follow the theory that might makes right, but the present theory is that each side shall present its theory and the evidence pertaining thereto to an unprejudiced tribunal, which, under a set of rules known as laws shall determine the facts of the controversy and decide in accordance therewith. Each party to the controversy, however, is entitled to an attorney to present the facts to the unprejudiced tribunal, the court, for determination thereof according to the rules, or the law. The lawyer, therefore, under our present system of jurisprudence has taken the place of the gladiator, but still is engaged in most contentious work, striving to put the case of his client before the court in the most favorable light. He is as much engaged in a battle as the gladiator, who is using force, but unlike the gladiator he is controlled and governed by a code of ethics which require that all of his actions shall be proper and honest. He is bound to exercise towards his client the utmost good faith and to scrupulously account to him for all moneys, goods and advantage which he has gained for the client in litigation or to a dispute, to advise the client concerning the law and the facts, but never to use dishonorable tactics even for the benefit of a client.

The lawyer is subject to the greatest temptations. He may be offered great remuneration to accept unconscionable cases, or to sell out his clients; he has great sums of money going through his hands for which he must account to his clients; he may be approached by unscrupulous persons to handle illegal matters; it may be easy for him to suborn perjury, to win litigation for his client and himself profit thereby, and unfortunately from the very contentious nature of the profession of the lawyer the public are only prone to believe that practically every member of this honorable profession is guilty of some dishonest act. The facts and statistics, however, are otherwise. It is not news that a lawyer has performed an honest act, but let a lawyer be guilty of embezzling client's funds, of suborning perjury, or of representing known gangsters, and the public cry, "Another crooked lawyer."

It has been the privilege of the writer to have served for almost three years upon the Board of Governors of the State Bar of California, a public corporation organized in this state, composed of all the lawyers herein, to govern the profession. All cases of misconduct of lawyers, be they great or small, are brought before this board. All persons have the right to make a complaint against a lawyer for any dishonest or unethical practice, and if the complaint has any foundation in fact it comes before this board. The court, the bar and the public are all watching the lawyers, and their least transgression is reported and tried, yet the lawyers of this state who are charged with misconduct represent less than 3% of the lawyers of the state, and those who have been found guilty and disciplined amount to less than 2%. In other words, ninety-eight out of one hundred of the lawyers of the State of California are inherently and scrupulously ethical and honest. The dishonest and unethical lawyer comes from less than 2% of the profession, and yet the majority of this 2% are not dishonest but have been guilty of the infraction of some of the high ethical standards imposed by the bar upon itself.

The dishonest men are being rapidly dissociated from the profession by the State Bar itself, yet in the eyes of the public the profession bears the stigma of a very few who are dishonest, or have violated its code of ethics. It is not just that when ninety-eight of every one hundred lawyers in this state are just, upright and ethical men that the stigma of less than 2% should be cast upon the entire profession. The 2% will soon be eliminated from the profession by the lawyers themselves. The 98% will continue the practice of the law in an honest and ethical manner. The profession should be judged not by the insignificant number of defaulers, but by the great number of honest and upright men.

CUPID'S COMEBACK

An exhaustive survey of national recovery, just completed by William F. Ogburn, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, reveals that marriages deferred during the lean years now are being solemnized.

Already, says the professor, the increased marriage rate is beginning to show in various ramifications of our national life. There is an increased birth rate, for one thing. And, incidentally, there are definite commercial benefits accruing from the increased needs of young couples.

Even waving aside its commercial aspects, the trend is most encouraging. The repeated postponement of marriages in the last five years constituted one of the great silent tragedies of the depression.

The return to normalcy, so to speak, is very welcome.

POLY OWL CRUMBLES

Tradition sometimes weaves an almost sacred halo of memories around objects, which, without the thoughts of those to whom the object is symbolic, would offer little of sentimental value.

So it was with the old Poly Owl, which came crashing to earth yesterday when the facade of the old Santa Ana High school administration building was pulled down with a thundering crash which shook the earth like the quake which damaged the school building three years ago.

The Poly Owl was a legendary figure at the high school. For 23 long years he endured ignominies at the hands of prankish students who painted him every color of the rainbow, tarred and feathered him and treated him with scant respect.

Although it was somewhat of an adventure to paint the owl, even those students who had a hand in it, had a soft spot in their hearts for the wise old bird who had perched atop the main school building for more than two score years, emblematic of the knowledge available for but a little effort inside the wide doors he stood guard over.

Thousands of citizens of Santa Ana and other communities in the nation where the students have gone since finishing their course in high school, spent the most formative period of their lives under the watchful eyes of the Poly Owl.

But now the Poly Owl has returned to the dust from which it was fashioned, and the ever-flowing tide of zestful and youthful life, a colorful panorama of hopes fulfilled, romance realized and sometimes bitter disappointment, will continue to ebb and flow on the campus and in the classroom at Poly High, but without the assuring presence of the staid old bird who symbolized the spirit of the school.

Thousands of students will pass through the portals of the school in years to come, most of them with no thought of the legends of the past. But there are other thousands who will remember, and to whom the passing of the Poly Owl is something to think about, and to remember in later years of life when glowing memories of golden days in high school are closely interwoven with memories of the Poly Owl and the part he played in the teeming campus life.

WATER BONDS

From the announcement of Major Wyman, of the Army Engineers, it now is assured that Orange County will have an opportunity to get flood control and water conservation with the least possible cost to the county.

The proposition has passed both Houses and we understand the Army has funds ready to proceed with the work probably by the first of January, if the right-of-way is provided by the county.

It will be necessary for Orange County citizens to vote a bond issue to buy the land on which to build the dam and which the water damages. Officials now expect that no more than $2,500,000, perhaps less, will be needed for the land. Now that the county has this opportunity, every effort should be made to as speedily as possible get the bond issue before the people and pass it so that the work can be started at the first possible moment. It probably will take three years to complete the work after it is started.

It would seem that there is little need of much explanation because every citizen in the county realizes that flood control and water conservation are needed and needed badly.

The project was defeated before because of the cost to the county. Now that the cost will be reduced to a minimum, it would seem that the vote should be almost unanimous for the project. We cannot imagine why any citizen, who really understands it, should vote against the project.

The supervisors should lose no time in preparing the necessary legislation to present the matter to the voters as soon as it can be done legally.

OPPOSITION IS HEALTHFUL

The deliberations of Congress in recent weeks have been noteworthy for the number of empty seats in evidence during the sessions. Debate on the $800,000,000 tax bill, for instance, drew a House attendance of slightly less than 100 percent. Only when the final vote was taken did the members show up to "go on record."

Now this obviously is not a healthy state of affairs. The essence of good representative government is a legislature which debates thoroughly and intelligently, with an active opposition ready to act as a brake on the majority. Certainly, the minority cannot justify its existence if it does not present itself at the scene of battle; and by the same token it is equally hard to excuse the majority for its mass indifference.

The public has a right to expect more than that from its Washington representatives.

SANCTIONS TO ITALY

Britain's declaration that she is now willing to withdraw her sanctions to Italy, provided the members of the League of Nations are willing, does not at all clarify the European situation. It probably would have been better for Europe had there been no sanctions than to have had partial sanctions and to have failed.

We cannot help but wonder what effect this will have on Italy's determination to increase her holdings. Sanctions are a bigger problem than they appear when a nation proposes to enforce them. It is almost impossible to predict what would be the results when they are attempted. The effects of the sanctions are not yet over in Europe, even if they are to be recalled.

Ladies and Gentlemen—The Next Event Will Be—

Day By Day In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 22—A third party in the national political contest this year, backed by the forces of Father Coughlin and Dr. Townsend as well as the former supporters of the late Senator Huey Long and his share-the-wealth organizations, is a much more important development than in any other campaign in which third parties have appeared.

The effect of the third party may not be as favorable to the Republican as might seem to be the case on first impression. It all depends on whether the new party will draw more heavily from the cities than the agricultural centers.

The program of the Union party, as it is to be called, is such as might appeal to agricultural states, where the bulk of the vote has been Republican. The appeal to labor on the other hand, may not be strong enough to woo Democratic votes from President Roosevelt. Also, the hold of the administration on the city voters through the large political machines, built up with the use of WPA personnel, is rather strong and is not as vulnerable to the Union party's attack as might have been the case in other years.

But it is questionable whether the new deal party will get as many of the Hoover votes of 1932 as they have been counting on. Many of the Republicans who voted for Hoover in 1932 have said they approved of the Roosevelt policies—at least the Literary Digest poll showed that rather definitely. So the effect of the Union party may be to give a place of refuge for those who are dissatisfied with the Republican offering to go back to that party and yet who are disappointed that the new deal has not gone far enough in the so-called "left" direction to please them.

The final outcome, of course, may show that the Union party helped to elect the Republican nominee because, if there is to be a close contest, the new party may win a sufficient number of votes from the Democrats as to enable the undivided liberal-conservative bloc for Governor Landon to get a plurality but not necessarily to exceed in totals the combined Union party and new deal party vote.

Such an eventuality, however, cannot be looked for unless the Union party can make more definite inroads on the cities than is to be anticipated from a rating of the new program or platform offered.

Thus, the inflation issue is not particularly popular in the cities, though it does have an appeal to farmers. Establishment of a central bank and retirement of all interest-bearing bonds will hardly be attractive to the laboring elements of the country because it will be condemned by the opposition as dangerous to the pay envelope. The protection of small business and industry, the increasing of federal work projects on natural resources and the argument against foreign entanglements hardly seem to have in them the advantages of a concrete issue that can pull votes away from the Roosevelt-Farley ticket, though the attack on spoilsmanship may be the most effective plank that the Union party may develop for an appeal to city voters.

Obviously, the Republican leaders will rejoice over the entry of a third ticket. This is because they think the new deal party would naturally acquire the left wing vote this year, and that, in all probabilities, the Republican ticket would not have a chance to get it. In other words, the anti-Republican vote, if presented with but one alternative, would naturally accept the new deal party. But faced with the opportunity to express his protest through the Union party ticket, the Republican leaders here figure that this will be a "natural" for the believer in the planks of the Union party. This would mean less votes for Roosevelt.

It has been assumed here that the Literary Digest poll which showed a majority of the voters expressing disapproval of the new deal policies, was an accurate reflection of national opinion because left wing disapproval was lumped in with right wing disapproval of new deal policies. If this disapproval vote can now be separated into two parts, the combined vote of both the Republican and the Union party tickets could be a majority of the total vote cast and yet not be enough to defeat the new deal.

It is much too early to know, however, how intensive will be the third party campaign. Funds will have to be raised to buy radio time and to carry on warfare against the two major parties, and it is doubtful whether any of the business interests of the country will be found contributing to the third party cause. Father Coughlin and Dr. Townsend make a powerful combination and the effect of their entry into the campaign may not be felt in the presidential contest as much as it will be in the election of senators and representatives to the next congress.

Today in school the class wasn't acting very good, and Miss Kitty said, Come come, I suppose this restlessness is quite natural considering the season of the year, but if you'll remember that vacation is only a little way off it may help you to restrain yourselves. Not that I wish to suggest that you should regard vacation as just so much wait time when it comes to improving yourselves. Even without text books and pencils and other words, there are many ways of improving yourselves during the summer months. Perhaps somebody can give me an example? she said.

Wich Puds Simkins waved his hand, saying, We can improve our table manners by having more dizzerts with out meals, and by the end of summer we'll probably be so used to dizzerts we'll be able to eat out in restaurants and other peoples houses and not look surprised no matter what's passed around.

When I say improving I mean making yourself more fit in some way for the battle of life, Miss Kitty said, and Franky Shotes waved his hand, saying, We can improve ourselves by staying up later late every nite to learn to do without sleep so we'll be more fit for the big battles of life such as the battles of war.

My goodness I hope that won't be necessary, and anyway it's the people who have had plenty of sleep who can do without it best in emergencies, Miss Kitty said. When I spoke of the battle of life I spoke of the need of making money and I meant you could find yourselves some work to do for at least a part of your vacation. But it's also possible to improve your mind in your leisure moments, she said, and I waved my hand, saying, You can improve it relaxing it by taking a nap every time you get through playing, instead of going a lot of errands and stuff.

Most people sleep entirely too much as it is, and you can improve your minds by studying the growing things of nature, and we will now proceed to arithmetic, Miss Kitty said.

Wich we did feeling against it.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

JUST 'OW WOULD YOU GO ABOUT THAT?

The scene was a Pullman smoking room; the man talking was telling what purported to be a true, but had the sound of a manufactured, story of the English lack of humor.

"I was in London last summer," he said. "In the elevator with me was an American tourist. The elevator was rising at a snail's pace. The American tourist was restless. 'Wouldn't it be faster,' he said, addressing the operator, 'if you let the elevator stand still and moved the building up and down?'"

"The operator looked at the tourist but said nothing. Two days later I was in the elevator with the same American tourist. The operator of the elevator turned to him and said, 'By the way, aren't you the chap who asked me the other day whether it mightn't be faster to leave the lift stationary and move the building up and down?'"

"I am," said the tourist, smiling. "Well," said the operator, "may I ask just 'ow you would go about that?'"

A few minutes later I was in the club car of the train listening to the proceedings of a national political convention.

I heard glowing tributes to freedom in which I believe profoundly. I heard ardent denunciations of many New Deal policies which I believe to be right in their announced purposes but dangerously wrong in their methods of fulfilling those purposes.

In theory I was in agreement with the pleas that came hurtling through the air to me as I sped across the nation.

But I left the club car with a heavy heart.

Through a long hour I heard not a word of "just 'ow" anybody was going about getting done the desirable things that I think and the speaker thought the New Deal has sought to do in ways that cause more troubles than they cure.

I know the idea that the art of politics is to be grandly vague, but I cannot resist the conviction that the masses are growing very restless under vagueness.

They do not want to sell their soul into slavery to the state if somebody will only tell them "just 'ow" they can solve their problems under freedom.

They do not want to doom themselves to poverty by adopting an economics of scarcity in an age of plenty if somebody will only tell them "just 'ow" they can produce at full tilt and have it lift their standard of living instead of lower their income.

If somebody does not get quite specific about "just 'ow" all this can be done under freedom and under an economics of plenty, the future will belong to the great promisers who are smart enough to implement their promises with policies that look new and specific and actually bring benefit for a time even if at the cost of ultimate failure.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

A FEW BOOKS

"Just look at that row of books. But he loves them. Eats them up and cannot get them fast enough."

Side by side in uniform, stood the long line of Tommy at the sea shore, Tommy on the Hills, Tommy in Boarding School, Tommy in College, Tommy Among the Indians, all following the same sure recipe.

"Has he no other books?" "Well, he likes these. I don't want to spend money for a book he won't read, and still, I do wish he would read some other sorts."

It is queer, but people do hate to risk two dollars on a good book for a child. They will pay more than that to take him to the show every week. But for a book two dollars seems a lot. And maybe he won't ever look at it again after once reading it over.

He is not likely to reread Tommy. He gets all he wants at one reading, one skimming indeed. So why reread it?

I know that the series books are beloved. I know, too, that they can be expensive, and their period of usefulness prolonged past the proper time. I would suggest that along with the Tommy books one buy a real book as an experiment. First set the stage for the reading of it by mentioning it as one you read long ago and liked tremendously. You'd like to read that book again. You believe you will buy it for yourself just to read again about Tod's riding off in his automobile. And the defense of the Castle. That is a story. Yes, you really think you will buy a good edition of that book just to keep it handy.

You buy The Wind and the Willows, read it, and enjoy it, and place it where the boy can see it. The pictures will invite him. He will read the book, and like it, and you will give it to him for his birthday.

own, having read it so long ago yourself.

You lead him on. If he has not a copy of Treasure Island he must have one. There isn't a boy of reading age who won't read that book, and pick it up to reread his favorite pages again.

Introduce David Copperfield by reading parts of it aloud. It is still one of the greatest stories ever written. I have read the description of the storm, and thrilled to it anew with every reading. There is no bit of descriptive writing that I have ever read to equal the power of that one. The thundering sea, the flying spray, the sound and the fury of it are terrible. And always that note of impending tragedy. David Copperfield must stand on that bookshelf, to be read and reread as time goes by.

Of course the same thing applies to the girls' books. They must have Little Women, Queen Victoria, If This Be I, A Child Went Forth. There are so many fine books that no list can be adequate. My idea is that one good book a month should accompany the Series.
